Standardized social screening in U.S. NICUs

2021 national survey of level 2-4 NICUs across 5 U.S. regions (n=170 respondents)
23% reported standardized processes for social risk screening and referral

Processes in NICUs with Standardized Screening & Referral

TOOL TYPE: All SDOH screening tools were multi-domain. Most often tools developed by personnel in the unit (35%)

SCREENING PROVIDER: Type of screening provider (check all that apply):
Social worker (92%), Nurses (26%), Physician or AAP (15%).

TIMING OF SCREENING: Within the 1-2 weeks of admission (84%)

REFERRAL PROCEDURES: Social work consultation (94%), referral to community resources (80%)

Cordova-Ramos et al. National Prevalence of Social Determinants of Health Screening Among US NICUs. Hosp Peds 2022

What would the ideal screening tool look like?

Psychometric properties	Pragmatic properties
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Developed using gold standard processes</li><li>• Accurately and precisely measures social risk domains (validity)</li><li>• Measures changes in social risk over time and repeated measure (reliability)</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Easy to use in practice</li><li>• Free or low cost</li><li>• Brief</li><li>• Low-literacy (8th grade or less)</li><li>• Relevant to the NICU population</li><li>• Appropriate for culturally and linguistically diverse populations (e.g. available in multiple languages)</li></ul>

Henrikson et al. Psychometric and Pragmatic Properties of Social Risk Screening Tools: A Systematic Review. AJPM 2019

Psychometric and pragmatic properties of existing social screening tools

- Systematic review of 21 social screening tools published in the peer reviewed literature between 2000 and 2018
- 8/21 underwent some reliability/validity testing
- 20/21 favorable pragmatic evidence
- No data on how validity varies by race/ethnicity or language

Conclusion: Various multi-domain, low-cost, low literacy tools are available for social screening in clinical settings, but psychometric data are very limited.

How do I select a screening tool? Consider...

Is there a tool already in use in your larger health system? Aligning with institutional efforts may facilitate implementation

	Tool Already in Use in Your Health System	Tool Not Already in Use in Your Health System
EHR integration
Familiarity to other providers in health system
Aligned with needs of families in the NICU
Length and ease

If a screening tool already exists in your health system...

Our recommendation: Choose the tool already in your health system and adapt it for use in the NICU

	Tool Already in Use in Your Health System	Tool Not Already in Use in Your Health System
EHR integration	Often already in the EHR	More time needed to get integrated into EHR
Familiarity to other providers in health system	Often more familiar	Less familiar
Aligned with needs of families in the NICU	Often less aligned, as it is meant for adults or out-patient setting	Can choose a tool that is more aligned with NICU
Length and ease	Can have more elements than needed	Can choose appropriate length

When choosing a tool or adapting a tool, consider...

- What domains should you screen for in your NICU?
  - CMS mandated items
  - Items particularly relevant to your NICU population
  - Items for which community resources are available

Possible Domains	CMS Mandate	NICU Relevance	Our Recommendation

Assessment of social risks vs. needs vs. both

- Screening tools may include assessments of risk only, needs only, or both. Currently, practice varies.
- Notably, CMS measures focused on social risk screening only.

Our recommendation is to include assessment of social needs (i.e. asking about family member's interest in support/assistance)

This is a family-centered method to intervene based on family priorities.

Example of adaptation: Case I

Adaptation Procedures:

- BMC team convened 2 focus groups with diverse families (one in English, one in Spanish) to ask them about questions
- BMC team convened 4 bi-monthly meetings with NICU multidisciplinary team (social worker, case manager, nursing director, bedside nurse champion, physician champion) to iteratively adapt questions for NICU context
- BMC team tested the revised tool with families at bedside

Examples of adaptation: Case I

Do you have trouble getting transportation for medical appointments?

Yes
 No

Do you need support getting transportation to or from the NICU? (Examples: paying for parking, getting a taxi ride, shuttle services)

Yes
 No

“Offer support vs asking about trouble”

“Match to the resources you can offer”

Examples of adaptation

Are you currently unemployed and looking for a job?

- Yes
 No

Do you need support looking for a job or job training for you or anyone in your house?

- Yes
 No

"I would keep. But this question may be more pertinent for the non-birthing parent at this time"

Examples of adaptation

Are you interested in more education?

- Yes
 No

Do you need support getting more education for you or anyone in your house? (Examples: obtaining GED, English as second language classes)

- Yes
 No

“Need examples of resources. Many families are interested in ESL classes.”

“Offer support and target the household.”

Verbal introduction to screening by social worker

Verbal screening by social worker

Rephrase questions to focus on caregivers in household

What we've learned...

Tools can be adapted to fit your NICU. Prioritize pragmatic characteristics (e.g. brief, relevant to NICU families, available in multiple languages).

At minimum, consider screening for food insecurity, housing instability, utilities and transportation difficulties. If screening for education needs, include ESL classes.

What we've learned...

Target the household/family, not just the responding caregiver. Prioritize needs over risks. Disclosure statements matter!

To the extent possible, align screening domains with available resources. Referrals must not be a dead end for families.

- Questions about Tools?
- Do you know if there is already something in use at your hospital system?

Integration of Social Screening and Referrals in the Electronic Health Record

Gaby Cordova Ramos, MD

Why is it important to have social screening in the EHR?

Collect and track data on social risks/needs of your NICU population

Streamline social work documentation

Download resources

Communicate screening and referral information with interdisciplinary team and with outpatient providers

Practical considerations

- There is currently no consensus on best practices for documenting social risks/needs in the EHR.
  - Some screeners are scanned in, some are manually entered into components of the EHR (e.g. flowsheets), and some are administered electronically (e.g. tablets, patient portals).
- Ask your IT team: How are social risks/needs and referrals documented in other departments? Is it feasible to tailor the documentation/display to your unit's needs?
- Modifications/additions to the EHR may take a long time.
Start soon!

Important considerations when you are planning to integrate your screening tool into the EHR

Location of screening results in EHR

- ❑ Need location that can be viewed by all staff (not only the social worker)

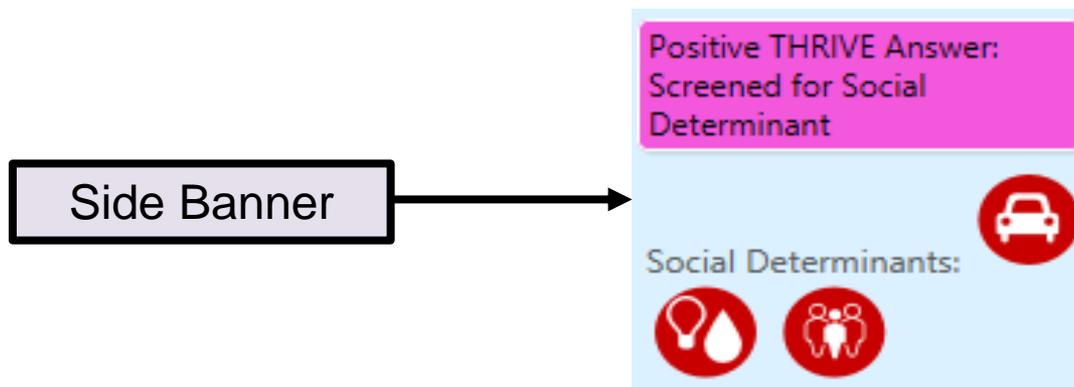

The screenshot displays the Epic EHR interface for a patient in the 'BMC Production - MEN NEONATOLOGISTS - ERIKA C.' environment. The patient's name is [REDACTED], and their bed is Y4N11-01. The 'Chart Review' section is active, showing various tabs like Encounters, Surgeries, and Labs. The 'THRIVE- Social Determinants of Health' section is highlighted, showing risk levels for various factors: Housing (Low Risk), Medications (Low Risk), Utilities (Low Risk), Employment (Low Risk), Food (High Risk), Transportation (High Risk), Caregiving Burden (Low Risk), and Education (High Risk). Other sections include 'Health Maintenance', 'Significant History/Details', 'Most Recent Behavioral Scores from encounters over the past 365 days', 'Last 3yr', 'Family History', and 'Family Comments'.

Entering screening results into the EHR

- ❑ Scenario 1. Screening conducted in paper form and results transferred to EHR
  - ❑ A. Forms may be scanned and entered
  - ❑ B. Form may be completed on paper by family or by provider during an interview and then transcribed
  - ❑ Does the display in the EHR mirror the paper version for ease of input?

Entering screening results into the EHR

- ❑ Scenario 2. Screening results entered directly into EHR
  - ❑ A. Provider conducts screening verbally as they document it in tablet/computer
  - ❑ B. Patient completes screening independently on tablet/phone/patient portal

Use of EHR to provide community resource referrals

- Use of community resource search engines embedded in the EHR

Need for linkage in EHR between birthing parent and infant

- ❑ Screening results completed during mother's admission made visible on infants' chart and vice versa

Need for communication of screening results to out-patient settings

- Optimal*: Screening display visible across encounters if out-patient providers use same EHR as NICU
- Optimal*: Discharge summary templates pull results automatically of social risk/need screening that occur during NICU hospitalization
  - For EPIC Users: Results in flowsheets can be pulled into discharge summaries with dot phrases

Take home points

EHRs can be leveraged to facilitate tracking of screening and referrals and communication of results among staff.

Modifications and build-ups in the EHR can take a long time. Plan ahead and start working with your IT team soon. Teams may choose to start on paper while EHR is set up.

Take home points

Design screening/referral displays that are easily accessible and visible to the full NICU team.

Special considerations for the NICU that the EHR can support: (a) linkage of birthing parent and infant charts; and (b) communication with outpatient providers after discharge.
